Problem-Solution Fit

| Area                         | ComicCraft Evidence                                                                                                        | Status |
|------------------------------|----------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------|--------|
| Customer Problem             | Creating a complete comic manually requires story writing, dialogue creation, illustration and layout work.                |        |
| Proposed Solution            | ComicCraft automates the pipeline from user prompt to five-panel comic.                                                    |        |
| Evidence in Existing Project | The documented application contains Gemini Flash, Gemini Pro, Stable Diffusion, layout building and PDF export components. |        |
| User Value                   | Users provide creative inputs and receive a previewable, exportable comic.                                                 |        |
